

National Severe Weather Warning Service

Chief Forecasters Assessment

Following some wet weather over the weekend, another spell of heavy rain will develop later today. The heaviest rain is expected this evening, with 20-40 mm falling within a 6 hour period. The strong winds will mean that fallen leaves could impede drainage and increase the risk of localised flooding.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 15:00 on Mon, 09th Nov 2015 until 23:59 on Mon, 09th Nov 2015

Rain will become heavy and persistent later this afternoon and will continue through the evening. The rain will be accompanied by strengthening southwesterly winds. Standing water will bring difficult driving conditions, and some localised flooding brings the risk of some minor travel disruption.
